SOCIETY OF PM PROFESSIONALS
OF GREATER VANCOUVER

You are invited to attend the 77th Professional Development Seminar being held on February 17th, 2016. The Society is pleased to hold a seminar focused on specific project management practices for use on Information Systems (IS) and Information Technology (IT) projects. The seminar is for PMPs and their colleagues who are committed to the advancement of the Profession or working towards attaining their PMP certification. This invitation can be forwarded to a colleague you would like to invite.

The agenda for the day will include the following presentations and workshop sessions:

ERP on the High Seas – Trent Thompson, PMP

This presentation provides an overview of the project management challenges faced in a multi-year software development project with software deployed across six world wide offices and over 100 ships. The discussion will cover software selection, risk management, remote project team management and development methodologies.

Demystifying the SEI CMMI – Marko Wolf-Pany, PMP

Learn about the Software Engineering Institutes (SEI) collections of best practices that help organizations to improve their processes for: delivering products and services, acquiring products and services, providing superior services, and managing and developing an organization's workforce.

Quality Practitioner Tools – Bill Warner, Ph.D., PMP, CQM/OE, CSSGB

In this workshop, the seminar participants will explore a selection of quality practitioner tools widely used in managing quality in projects and in operations. Expand your project management toolkit through a better understanding of the practical uses of data-driven quality tools, metrics, and techniques. Identify additional quality tools that will prove helpful in managing the quality of your projects.

Cloud Based Technologies – Grant Sauer, PMP and Michelle Smith, PMP

Cloud computing is not a technology of the future; it is the technology of today. In this workshop we will provide a brief overview of cloud technologies in relation to their on-premises counterpart and then discuss their impact on project management. In order for project managers to keep pace with the rapidly evolving world of cloud computing and reap the full benefits, they will need to manage these new risks, capitalize on the inherent strengths and leverage Agile methodologies in their approach.

Agile or Waterfall: There is a Middle – Duncan Smith, PMP

The software development world is divided into (at least) two camps on the use of project management methodology: Waterfall and Agile. The literature is full of why one is better than the other. The superiority of one over the other is often taken as an article of faith. This workshop will examine an approach to bridge the two.

Fundamentals of Marketing & Product Management for Project Managers – Paul Brady, PMP

The presentation objectives are to allow participants to recognize the strategies, goals, and execution activities of marketing and product management practitioners.

Special General Meeting of the Society of PM Professionals – John Cooke, PMP

Following the seminar, the Society will hold a Special General Meeting to review and vote on the proposed Terms of Reference for the Task Force on the future of the Society beyond 2016, and review the plan of action going forward.

For more information on the technical program and presenters, contact the Project Manager for the 77th Professional Development Seminar, Sarah Peerless, PMP at Sarah.Peerless@gmail.com.

The Society of PM Professionals of Greater Vancouver

Organizer of Society of PM Professionals of Greater Vancouver Seminar: Managing IS and IT Projects

The Society is a voluntary, democratic organization of Project Management Professionals (PMP®s) in the Greater Vancouver area, who are dedicated to the achievement of their common purposes in the profession through mutual support, co-operation, and collective effort.

The purposes of the Society, acting within its local area, are:

- To advocate and to promote the practice of project management as a profession.
- To comment upon matters affecting the public interest in which the practice of project management is a factor.
- To organize and to conduct professional development events for professional practitioners of project management.

The basic principle which informs all of the activities and actions of the Society is that the peer group of professional practitioners in its community is an authoritative source of knowledge, arbiter of disputes, and judge of ethical professional conduct, in all matters involving the management of projects.

The PMP® designation is a credential awarded to qualified individuals by the Project Management Institute, whose international headquarters are in Four Corners, PA, USA.
